

artists / projects

about / map / contact / press / supporters /

Signs of Growth + Mobile Gardens

A "tag" marks locations along 14th Street where food crops could be grown. A map will be handed out to participants in a walking tour of these sites. Tags will be loaded into carts equipped as mobile gardens, and paraded along 14th street to the designated spots. Sidewalk paraders will answer questions and provide information to the public. The carts, signs and maps will be on display at the Skybridge Art & Sound Space at Eugene Lang College (65 W. 11th Street, 3rd floor walkway) from October 21st to November 20th.

For more information on this project please visit: www.growingspace.wordpress.com

ARTIST

Simonetta Moro and Eve Mosher with Eugene Lang College students, in collaboration with Tattfoo Tan

artist website

Simonetta Moro is a painter/educator who initiates collective art projects with her students that engage personal mapping, urban explorations, and the alternative use of public space. Eve Mosher is an artist who investigates the human condition in relationship to the world in which we live. Since 2006, she has created large-scale public projects using art and performance to engage the public around environmental and social-issues. Tattfoo Tan has exhibited extensively at

TIME / PLACE

Friday-Sunday, October 16-18 (daytime). Along 14th Street from Union Square to the Hudson River.